

Mary Anna Weber

President, Angotti Weber and Associates Adjunct Faculty, Indiana University Executive Education

Mary Anna Weber provides consulting services in the areas of strategy, learning, leadership and innovation:

- Strategy - Helps organizations and companies develop strategic pathways that translate their business goals and ideas into operational reality.
- Learning - Provides corporate level learning in the following topics: talent development and management, leadership development, change thinking, innovation, and sustainability planning.
- Leadership - Facilitates Thought Leader Development, Team Development, and Individual Leadership Development programs. Coaches leaders to shift thinking, change actions, transform outcomes and accelerate success.
- Innovation – Providing “critical tension techniques”

Mary Anna is a faculty team member for O’Neill Executive Education where she teaches classes in the area of Management and Leadership Development. She received her Bachelor of Science in Consumer Economics from West Virginia University and her Master of Science in Adult Education and Organizational Development from Ball State University.